

Karl Heinz Dietrich Reaches Worldwide

Karl Heinz Dietrich Internationale Spedition has a network of agencies that reach around the world with their own joint air and ocean forwarding services for both exports and imports.

The Company was launched in 1945 and branches have since been established in Hamburg, Idar-Oberstein, Kaiserslautern, Mannheim and Schwabisch Gmund. In 1990, a branch office was opened in Prague and Bratislava.

Truck routes have been extended to include international transportation within western and eastern Europe.

Seaport connections with KHD's own export and import joint trucking services have been extended, thanks to newly built premises in Hamburg, while the handling of air freight has been expanded via a new installation in Mannheim.

National and European joint trucking operations have been adjusted to cope with the growing demands of its customers.

The construction of the new logistics center in Germaringen has enabled KHD to make existing just-in-time services more efficient for its customers. Also, to accommodate growing demands, the company has acquired Rhombus Haulage Co., refrigerated freight specialists. Customers in both the domestic and the international market can benefit from the international, flexible and individual services of the KHD organization.
